

LIFE LINES⁸

Michael Franz Whitby

Life lines
Always good to read
As the age cometh
The aging individual
Has stood alone
On average one-third of life's span

When an individual deciding to accomplish
Accomplishment - extraordinary feats
As these things occur - life changes

Like the taste of life's favourite drinks
Being water or not
Coffee or tea
Cappuccino or espresso
Changes, differ as the age cometh
From eight to eighty-eight

Life's a long train running in the night
The distance seems so much farther
But when arrived, you ask yourself - so soon
That's life!

From eight to eighty-eight
So see and feel
While capturing each and every moment
Those exotic delights
One may never fly coach again
Life lines are like the still of the night
So make each have an accountability log
Somewhere in your memory

All the past perfect days were just appetizers
Main meal starts now; course of life
The anatomy of the perfect life - leave the rat race behind
Seek neighbourhood with more refined future
Feel how magical life can be
The power is in your hands
To rediscover inspirations
